HISTORY

Few locations in Rome can boast a history as prestigious as that of Niquesa's Hotel d'Inghilterra. It is beloved for its magnificent location, compelling history, eclectic originality and the effortless elegance with which it welcomes its elite clientele.

The building dates to the mid-sixteenth century when it was used as an aristocratic residence for visitors of Palazzo di Torlonia, located across the street. By the 15th century the local area was renowned for hosting the city's best hotels and attracted foreign visitors and international communities. The nearby luxury shopping district Via Borgognona owes its name to the group of merchants from the region of Burgundy, who populated the district since the early 1400s.

In 1845, the Palazzo di Torlonia's guesthouse was converted into a hotel known, due to its popularity with British visitors, as the Hotel d'Angleterre. One of the hotel's most famous residents was the English Romantic poet John Keats who spent time in the hotel during the last years of his tragically short life.

The hotel was also a regular haunt for the likes of Elizabeth Taylor, Gregory Peck, Mark Twain and Ernest Hemingway during the Dolce Vita years of the early 1900s.

ART AND ARCHITECTURE

The stunning design of the Hotel d'Inghilterra was inspired by Alessandro Pasini and Tomaso Piantini - two Italian architects - whilst the furnishings and fittings were inspired by designer Roberto Terrinoni.

The first renovations which called for an investment of more than 2 million euro, date to 2008 and affected the entire fourth floor: the 21 rooms became only 13, thus providing guests with far more space and comfort during their stay. The rooms were all entirely redecorated with chandeliers of hand-blown Murano glass, vibrant and elegant modern fabrics and with all the latest technology: from chromo-therapy showers to retractable TVs in the bathroom and, in one of the suites, a sauna.

In August of 2012 the three salons on the ground floor and the reception area were renovated, Café Romano got its first restyling and the 20 guest rooms of the second floor were entirely renewed. In the intimate sitting rooms – Verde, Arancio and Rosa – one is enveloped by the brilliance of the colours chosen for the walls and upholstery, colours which gave the rooms their names, and by the warm and cosy atmosphere created by the lamps, paintings and artwork from all over the world. Among the more interesting works of contemporary Italian art are sculptures by Roberto Almagno, ceramics by Giacinto Cerone and paintings by Franco Ruaro.

With respect to the past, today's décor pairs antiques with original furnishings and ancient and contemporary works of art, a refined new style of design featuring a renewed palette of colours, paints, exquisite fabrics and elegant lighting. The firm Giannoni&Santoni were employed to create the paint: the colours, obtained by blending earth and natural pigments, have given new light and brilliance to the Hotel d'Inghilterra. The textile artisans of Silk beyond in Caserta have hand-crafted beautiful fabrics for the sofas, arm chairs and head boards, all of exquisite quality.

SUITES AND ROOMS

In true testament to the hotel's individual and iconic style, all of the eighty-nine tastefully furnished rooms in the Hotel d'Inghilterra are different. Each of the hotel's suites are a perfect mix of traditional decadence and modern freshness that embodies the soul of Italian design. The Superior and Royal Suites are aristocratic apartments with French balconies and deep, double-sized bathtubs overlooking the city. The Presidential Suite opens out onto a flower-filled terrace with an unforgettable panorama that sweeps from Villa Medici all the way to the Vittoriano.

The hotel's guest rooms are resplendent with luxuriant details. Antiques, silks, damask, Chinese porcelain, cool marble and baroque mirrors are accented with light, modern touches and superior facilities.

The Classic Double and Royal Double, rooms are beautifully appointed, with large windows allowing the warm Roman sun and, despite being deep in the dynamic heart of Rome, guests are assured complete relaxation and privacy.

PRESIDENTIAL SUITE

This unique suite is located on the top floor of the hotel and is famous for the magnificent views it offers over the rooftops of Rome from its vast private terrace, which boasts fragrant jasmine bushes and wild orange trees. The 360° panorama goes from Villa Medici all the way to the Vittoriano and the many landmark monuments in between. The Presidential Suite has a spacious salon, a study, a dining area with an original and fully functional 19th century fireplace, a bedroom and two bathrooms. The 200m<sup>2</sup> terrace is also ideal for receptions, private parties or a romantic candlelight dinner for two.

The paintings gracing its walls are original Pinellis, there are Imperial-style sofas, an oval Louis XVI table, Chinese porcelain lamps and antique rugs. These are just some of the precious objects which embellish this elegant 80m<sup>2</sup> apartment composed of a sitting room, dining area with fireplace, study, bedroom and two bathrooms in white Carrara marble.

NIQUESA HOTELS & RESIDENCES

Niquesa Hotels & Residences has carefully built up a collection of six historic, restored palazzi in some of Italy's most culturally important cities including Rome, Florence, Siena and Vicenza.

In 2014 the Royal Demeure hotel group re-branded to become Niquesa Hotels & Residences. The rebrand allowed the property elements harmonise with other aspects of the wider business including jewellery.

The group is privately owned by Italian Professor Luigi de Simone Niquesa, who started his career at the Hotel d'Inghilterra Rome and quickly rose through the ranks to General Manager. In 1987 the Professor recognised a huge opportunity with some of the noble homes of architectural importance in Italy. His entrepreneurial skills and ambition combined with an education in economics led him to begin the creation of an exclusive hotel collection, featuring properties situated at the heart of leading Italian cities renowned for their cultural heritage.

The brand's love of the good life is perfectly embodied in the collection's six deluxe boutique hotels. Each has its own inimitable character, and each exemplifies our Italian heritage through its elegant style and the way in which it warmly welcomes and personally serves its cherished guests.

These hotels have attained a balance between honour for their vestiges of ancient Italy and their celebration of modernity. They are temples of hospitality, representatives of Niquesa's artisan soul.

Niquesa's service philosophy comes from their worldly knowledge and personal experiences as a guest.
